Mrs. Mary Summers died suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Will Truby, corner of East Locust street and Kegler Avenue, last Monday morning from an attack of heart paralysis.

She had gotten up and was arranging to wash the dishes which the family had laid aside after supper Sunday evening, and her brother, R. C. Loran, who is stopping there, heard her moving around and getting up, dressed and came down stairs. As he entered the kitchen he noticed her setting quite still in a chair, with a changed expression in her face, and said to her, "Mary, what's the matter?" She did not reply and he went to her and called to Mrs. Truby who was up, and they helped her to her bed. She lived about two hours after the attack. Immediately on laying her mother down Mrs. Truby called a physician, who pronounced the cause of her condition paralysis of the heart.

She was 68 years of age and was a native of Green county but had lived in this county most of her life, as she was raised here. She was a sister of R. C. (Bud) and Tom Loran.

Central Business College SEDALIA, MO.

Pupils are enrolling almost daily in these popular schools, and prospective pupils are writing for catalogue. Book-let on Stenotype and circulars on combination course from almost every state in the union.

The graduates from these institutions have made good in bookkeeping positions, Stenotype positions, shorthand positions and positions in Telegraphy, in almost every state and community in America; hence, these marvelously successful institutions are widely and favorably known.

I print below letter received from B. Dawson, Principal of Sedalia Telegraph School:

"Dear Mr. Robbins: We are smothered with calls for men. The U. P. wires asking how many we can send at once. The C. B. & Q. want two or three—the Rock Island want two.

If there anything we can do to hurry up more prospects and get them started. All of these offers are at good pay, with passes from connecting points. If prospects knew the enormous demand they would realize their opportunity.

All graduates of the school have been placed. Notwithstanding the large number attending our telegraph school, we can't fill half the calls."

B. Dawson.

Dentists Escape Crazy Patient. Moberly.—Crazed by gas, C. A. Buxter, a Salisbury, Mo., grocer, stampeded the fourth annual convention of the North Central Missouri Dental association. Tearing the gas machine loose from its fixtures in the Commercial club rooms where the convention was held, Mr. Buxter hurried it from a second-story window where it landed in an automobile belonging to Dr. T. J. Tydings and occupied by two women.

A basket full of forceps followed the machine and a chair went through another window. Buxter seized a second chair and attacked Dr. A. M. Fursish of Moberly, who was trying to escape by a door. The crazed man next turned his attention to Dr. E. C. Rowe of Clifton Hill, knocking him down. The other dentists fled down the narrow stairway and several were slightly injured in the crush.

Dr. R. B. Mason of Salisbury had just read a paper on "Synthetic Percelain Fillings" and had administered gas to Buxter, who was the subject on whom a demonstration was to be made. The patient became crazed and the stampede followed.

The following officers were elected before adjournment: President, Dr. J. F. McClellan, Moberly; vice president, Dr. J. F. McWilliams, Mexico; secretary, Dr. Charles Diggs, Columbia; treasurer, Dr. M. C. Boswell, Moberly. Columbia was selected as the 1914 convention town.
